

CHOMBOCHRONICLES

Breakdown

Differences

1. Changes in databases
 - a. Accounts ended up just being Username and Password
 - b. Story ended up having storyid and title
 - c. We added another table to manage stories
 - i. StoryID
 - ii. EntryID
 - iii. Content
 - iv. Contributor
 - v. Time Stamp
 - d. This was for efficiency's sake. It worked better with our development strategy.
2. We lumped the components together, since it was easier to manage and more efficient
 - a. App.py
 - b. Functions.py
3. We added extra pages (templates)
 - a. All the ones we had planned, as well as:
 - i. Changed edit.html to newentry.html
 - ii. Added story.html (to display completed stories)
 - iii. Added about.html (about/instructions page)
 - b. We felt these were necessary at the time of development.
4. We were unable to implement some of our extra features, but instead focused on making the current program more robust.
